Super sucks i got 95K off the deal for u and u wont return a text

If there was some condition or other u didnt like, u couldve asked me to work on Nick for u

As I told u, I could care less if u took the whole biz for zero dollars

I care about you, your kids, your team, my children and my team

If u and Nick go nuclear on eachother in court over the same amount of money u could make from 1/5th of a launch, it will show me u guys just wanted this all along -- Screenshot_20170815-215646.png

I was a loyal friend and brother to both u guys, but i guess u both "need to win" so bad cause u r disconnected from your emotions and only enjoy your lives when someone else loses

You cant even let that dorky short kid in NYC take a 6 from u and post about it, so makes sense u had to win this too, even after getting 95K down its not enough

I thought Nick was fucking petty but at least he came down massively for u and for that I respect him for showing some growth

On your end if u needed more help u shouldve trusted me who is your

On your end if u needed more help u shouldve trusted me who is your brother for 15 years over a random lawyer who benefits from going to court

I would have happily had your back as I have since day 1

Relationships like that are worth more than 75K to anyone who is successful, and thats why i prioritized your happiness

Getting the price down was a gift to

Getting the price down was a gift to you and your new baby who i would have expected to have a relationship with and to play with my sons, and if u needed more help you could have just hit me back and asked

There's good people in the world Todd. I appreciate you making me realize people have selfish agendas and u r VERY right

But sometimes that agenda is the good feeling u get from helping someone who needs it

The feeling of helping u and your family and ending on good terms was worth more to me than a 170K buyout, and thats why i worked it

It was selfish, but with a different metric than 95K since i can get more 95K's but cant get back 15 years of memories turned sour with a friend, and the bullshit it puts our community through to see the people they look up to being petty over cash

Anyway thats all I gotta say man, I am moving on from this and will let -- Screenshot_20170815-215745.png
